LOCAL NEWS.

Street drill last night.

Fun at the Central Park rink to-night.

Marshall Soper enjoyed the luxury of a runaway day before yesterday afternoon.

A five-year-old boy by the name of Charlie Young was drowned at Kapena Falls last Saturday afternoon.

It is rumored that every woman who goes to the Central Park skating rink to-night will be given an artistic Japanese fan.

Messrs. E. P. Adams &amp; Co. had a new and elegant sign painted over the front of their auction rooms on Queen street yesterday.

Mr. Halstead is engaged in placing his new roller mill in position which was shipped to his Waialua plantation some two months ago.

Personal in the San Francisco Call of a late date: "Pali—6 P. M. to-day at Oakland Ferry or some time to-morrow—Waikiki." It seems Honolulu has some gay ones who are learning the ropes at Frisco.

Engine Company, No. 1, will give a grand ball at the Yosemite Skating Rink next Thursday evening, October 1st. Tickets will be for sale at Oat's on Merchant street and by the members of the company.

Mr. Jules Tavernier has been suffering lately from a severe attack of the asthma which has confined him to his room. We are informed by Mr. Wright, his partner, that he was better last evening and will be able to be out shortly.

Just at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Alakea street, stands a large alga tree whose branches are overhanging the sidewalk greatly to the annoyance of pedestrians passing that way. A few minutes work with a saw and hatchet would avoid considerable grumbling.

The Band played an excellent programme at Emma Square last night. There was a fair attendance and the concert closed with "God Save the Queen" and "Hawaii Pono." We failed to publish the programme in yesterday's Press owing to the fact that it was lost after it reached the office.

Mr. George Cavenagh of the Astor House started over the Pali this morning at three o'clock for a week's vacation on the Koolau side. Restaurant men don't often get a vacation and this is the first time Mr. Cavenagh has "been off" in four years. Mr. Allen, formerly of the Cosmopolitan Restaurant, will take Mr. Cavenagh's place while he is gone.

A native in the employ of the I. I. S. N. Co. almost scared himself to death Saturday evening. He was driving his cart loaded with coal along the Esplanade. When turning into Fort street the tail-board of his cart dropped out. A cloud of dust and a loud report followed and the native leaped wild-eyed into the middle of the street to find his coal dumped where the road supervisor ought to dump stone. The horse was not at all excited and stood viewing the native driver with a look of growing astonishment.

The New Chinese Theatre in the old Custom House opened last night to a fashionable and select audience of three races. The drama, which represents a six weeks love affair of a Chinese mandarin, will take six months to fully develop the plot. Critics last night declared that the love scene between the beautiful Miss Ah Shoo and the gay deceiver Yum Nip was pathetic and never-to-be-forgotten. The proprietors only obtained their license yesterday afternoon and expressed their regret that they were unable to "whoop" a first class show on such short notice.

The Long Branch Baths were extensively patronized last Sunday and it was particularly noticeable that amongst the throng who kept going and coming were many strangers. During the afternoon while a party of half a dozen persons were sauntering along the beach above the bath house to what they supposed to be the most suitable place for a plunge, all of a sudden a shriek of agony was heard coming from one of the members of the party. Lo and behold! a wee, wee crab had taken hold of one of her dear little toes. Immediate assistance was given and the poor creature was rescued from the jaws of the dreadful monster.

Last Saturday night about half-past nine o'clock about twenty-five feet of the high board fence which partially encloses the merry-go-round at the corner of Richard and Queen streets fell suddenly outward into Richard street. The fence was old and rotten and ought to have been removed months ago. Several hacks, as usual, were standing along the curb and a general stampede was only avoided by the prompt action of the drivers. Captain Fehlbecher states that it is his belief that the fence fell because it got tired of holding Sam McKeague up. Sam had been there two hours watching for a chance to "haul in."

They say: that one of the Oceanic steamers is to be withdrawn soon; that somebody will be tripped before long; that some property owners are objecting to the sanitary articles in the Press; that the prolonged depression in business is the result of our own shortsightedness; that not one of the Oceanics struck out last night; that there is more fun in talking about your neighbors than in having them talk about you; that the boys are going to start a private billiard parlor; that the talk of the town is the scandal of the nation; that the Government intends presenting new suits of clothes, before long, to some of the "boss" opium importers; that the death of news is owing to the lack of reporters; that there will be a tempest in a tea-pot this morning; and that it will more than likely boil dry.

The championship dinner given last evening to the members of the Oceanic base club was a great success. The dinner was given by Mr. P. C. Jones, Jr. at his residence on Nuuanu street. Mr. Jones has always taken great interest in all the legitimate sports and the base ball boys fully appreciate his present expression of interest and good will in Hawaiian sports. The menu was most tastefully gotten up and printed in four colors. It comprised nine courses divided into innings as was printed in yesterday's Press. After a jolly good evening spent in dining and recounting the happenings and events of the season the boys kicked off the buskin and hung the champion bat in the corner with a solemn resolve to keep it for another year. The following is the list of the playing members as they appeared in the last game: W. A. Kinney, Captain, W. A. Wall, L. J. Scott, E. D. Baldwin, B. D. Baldwin, L. A. Thurston, D. M. Moehonua, M. Grossman, C. A. Brown and E. A. Jones.

A relative of Captain Bray of the missionary steamer Morning Star received a letter from the captain, dated at Butaritari, Gilbert Islands, in July last. Captain Bray reports that they have had more calms and currents this trip than he has known for many years. The Morning Star has been through the Gilbert Islands to Jaluit, Rusaia, and Ponape and returned again all in a little over two months from the time she left Honolulu. Over one portion of the route, where a sailing vessel has always been obliged to travel 3,000 miles, on account of winds and currents, the steamer had to travel only 365 miles. Wherever the steamer went the natives were greatly surprised at the steam whistle and were confounded with the ice and ice-water, which they declared burnt their mouths and made their teeth loose. Ice cream was one of the novelties the vessel made for both missionaries and natives. The Morning Star was at sea on the Fourth of July and those aboard ship made patriotic noises with tin pans, horns and the steam whistle. The vessel was about to sail from the Gilbert Islands to Ruk when this letter was written and she may be expected in Honolulu about January, 1886.

"Grant, the Leader and the Man."

The lecture by Major Dane last evening in the Y. M. C. A. Hall was very well attended and of great interest. The hall was tastefully decorated with American flags there being 13 arranged as symbols of the thirteen original states of the Union. These were draped by Mr. T. T. White, senior Vice-Commander of Geo. W. De Long Post of the Republic for the joint benefit of which organization and that of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of this city the lecture was given. The hall was well filled by 7:30 P. M., shortly after which hour Major Dane was introduced to the audience by Dr. N. B. Emerson, Commander of De Long Post G. A. R.

The lecturer prefaced his lecture by returning to those present as well as his absent friends on these islands his sincere thanks for the unfounded hospitality he had been the recipient of while here. He could say that in the future the audiences before whom he might appear concerning these islands, would learn of the generous, whole-souled welcome that had been given him.

We have not the space to give even a synopsis of the very interesting and eloquent lecture and can only say that for an hour and a half Major Dane drew picture after picture of General Grant, showing him as a great general and greater man. His leading characteristics were graphically portrayed, and a fitting tribute was paid to him as a genius of whom his country will always be proud.

The speaker was frequently interrupted by the earnest applause of his audience, who felt that they had listened to a lecture of rare eloquence and earnestness.

The receipts of the evening will not fall short of a hundred dollars.

A New Star in the Firmament.

EDITOR DAILY HONOLULU PRESS: Sir: It is at all times profitable as well as pleasing to lovers of romance, that is, for the parties participating getting the drop on an opium-smoking Mongolian. Officers making the arrest receive a share of the fine and equally so of the confiscated drug. Could not the same astute officers by some means drop onto certain petty thieves and burglars, and thereby allow the public to profit somewhat out of the liberal appropriation granted to uphold an efficient police system. The writer would suggest that some of those Chinese informers, ex-conspirators, etc., be induced to search out petty thieves and burglars, in addition to the unfortunates who hit the pipe and peddle opium.

SUFFERING CITIZEN.

The Post Obit Club.

It is understood that the Post Obit Club has borrowed a boat from the King and will enter for the coming regatta. Much privacy is studied by the crew and there would be almost nothing to record had not a Press reporter "caught on" to the racket while taking a moonlight survey of the Pacific Mail dock. "Sh-h! there they are," whispered the native boy who had given the business away. Fortified behind one of the shed's uprights, a pen picture was hurriedly jotted down. Beginning with the bow of the boat the club members were arranged in the following order: Members O'Mahony, Cathcart, Riest, Goode, Riddell, and President Barber. As the combined weight of Members Barber and Riddell had already lifted the prow of the boat out of the water a small boy had been placed at the tiller. "Are you all ready?" said President Barber as he felt of the water with his oar. "Ah, eh, sir," responded the members in ship-shape style. "Give away then!" shouted President Barber as he shut both eyes. The members all dipped water, but Member Riest failing to get his spoon full "let go" and struck Member Goode on the nose with his elbow. Member Goode immediately threw the gentleman of the Interior Department into the bay. This so lightened the boat that she dipped water at the stern, which caused President Barber to drop his oar and catch the gunwale for safety. Member Riddell reached his oar to assist Member Riest and careened the boat. After a moment's confusion the boat appeared bottom up with President Barber on top; the rest of the crew were caged under the boat. Member O'Mahony dived from under the boat, and, rising to the surface, struck President Barber avengeful blow back of the ear, which knocked him into the water. The released members immediately piled upon the boat and sunk it. President Barber shouted an order to Member O'Mahony to save the boat and immediately struck out for the wharf. In five minutes six wet forms sat dripping upon the edge of the wharf. "You cursed fools!" exclaimed President Barber, but he never finished the sentence; the members rushed upon him in a body and flung him back into the vasty deep. The members are still vowing vengeance if President Barber ever comes to the surface again. If the unlucky President Riddell this ungrateful club did regain Oahu's coral strand, he has secluded himself ever since in his "donjon keep" back of the Saratoga House.
